

GDPR Statement

On May 25, 2018, the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) came into effect across European Union (EU) member states, impacting any organization that processes personal data of EU individuals. GDPR represents a strengthening and harmonizing of existing data privacy rights for individuals in the European Union.

ibuumerang is committed to protecting personal data of our EU employees, contractors, customers, and vendors, regardless of where that data is processed. We have a robust security program and an established series of internal policies, processes, and practices across our organization to ensure that personal data of EU individuals is processed appropriately and protected in our information systems.

When processing the personal data of EU individuals, we:

- Ensure there is a legitimate business reason to collect the data;
- Ensure we have consent to collect and use the data (where required);
- Limit collection, storage and usage of the data only to the extent for which there is a business reason and consent.

Below are some highlights of how ibuumerang is ensuring compliance with GDPR:
